Team Player

About me

People find me to be an upbeat, self-motivated team player with excellent communication skills. For the past several years I have worked in 3rd Animation, Online Marketing, and web development in the technology industry. My objective is to always keep up with latest trends (in web development), I'm open to new ideas and always willing to take on new challenges. I believe in contributing to the community by attending drupal meetups and helping other fellow community members with issues or even how to develop websites etc.
